338 Spadina Avenue, c. 1920

Agnes (Dundas) Street, 1912

As the centre of Jewish life shifted west, the Ladovskys relocated to 338 Spadina Avenue, around the corner from Kensington Market and right next door to the Labour Lyceum. For the next seven decades UNITED BAKERS remained a part of what made Spadina so memorable for so many.

Spadina Avenue, 1969

Over the course of a century UB has become something of an institution. Since the mid-eighties we've been here at Lawrence Plaza. When you enjoy our hospitality today, you are part of a tradition that stretches back four generations in our family – and possibly in yours as well. Over the years much has changed, but our goal remains the same, to continue to be:

Lawrence Plaza, 1986

UNITED BAKERS DAIRY RESTAURANT is Toronto's oldest family restaurant. In 1912, our grandparents Aaron & Sarah Ladovsky opened a bakery & coffee shop downtown on Agnes Street in an area known as the Ward. They called their new business THE UNITED BAKERS.

UNITED BAKERS DAIRY RESTAURANT

A Toronto tradition since 1912

WE ARE FAMILY-OWNED AND OPERATED

FOR FOUR GENERATIONS WE'VE BEEN IN THE BUSINESS OF SERVING DELICIOUS DAIRY FOODS

WE ARE PROUD OF OUR REPUTATION AS TORONTO'S OLDEST TRADITIONAL DAIRY RESTAURANT

OUR FAMILY WELCOMES YOU
